Bizezia

Haywards Heath-based Bizezia.com started out as a vehicle for online marketing and practice documentation, but has been expanding its practice intranet service to incorporate more and more of the elements found in full blown practice suites. In addition to around 130 engagement letters and reports, the Bizezia portal gives you a customisable home page with access to rudimentary online expenses, calendar and task management. It also has a shared document storage area and a library of databases such as contacts and assets that could form the basis of more sophisticated tools you develop. It can also link to the More Online accounting system. The functional ingredients are still a bit thin, but Bizezia points the way to a new way of sourcing your practice technology.
