Bizezia, the online professional management tool provider today launches a new intranet service for accountants.

Designed to help practices improve their business efficiencies and aid compliance, the Biztranet system can be set up in hours and is totally secure. The product, which requires no capital outlay and is paid for by a monthly licence fee, comes with a wide choice of business and personalised marketing content.

Today's accountants are faced with an ever-increasing demand to evidence best practice and comply with regulations. Biztranet supports this by allowing firms to manage internal documents and information sources more efficiently from one easy to access, secure area.

Commenting on the new service, Martin Pollins, founder of Bizezia and Chartered Accountant for more than 40 years, said: "As an accountant myself, I understand only too well the pressures practices accountants are under. From the ICAEW's practice assurance, audit regulation and CPD to engagement letters, money laundering and fee protection, it's easy to become swamped with administration, leaving little time to actually earn fees. However, cutting corners in today's litigious society is not an option.

"Accountants need to harness the benefits of technology to help them to become more efficient and compliant. That is why we have developed the Bizezia suite of online management and information tools, which can also help add value to accountants'clients. Now, with the introduction of Biztranet, these tools are all available via a system which sits comfortably on their desktop and is available from anywhere in the world via their secure password-protected intranet login."Martin concluded.

Biztranet is the first intranet product of its kind designed specifically for progressive accountancy firms. It allows users to access a unique range of personalised practice resources, many of which can be tailored according to the professional body and network with which the firm is associated.

One of the tools offered is Bizezia Contract Manager. A package of more than 130 personalised engagement letters, Contract Manager provides an effective way for accountants to manage and standardise their agreements with clients.

Subscribers to Biztranet can also gain access to the Bizezia business library. This includes over 650 professionally-written informative and personalised publications that accountants can offer to clients and prospects as PDFs direct from their website for free.

Further added-value tools include a monthly client magazine which is personalised to each firm, online financial planning calculators and easy-to-use software tutorials.
